Investors are anticipating hawkish comments from Fed Chair at the upcoming Jackson Hole symposium. Another Fed official (Richmond Fed President) also spoke of 'urge' for faster rate hike to tackle inflation. Equity and currency indices broadly closed lower amidst tighter financial conditions. China's central bank again lowered their benchmark lending rates by reducing the 5Y LPR by 15bps to 4.3%. Even the 1Y LPR was reduced to 3.65% from 3.7% earlier. On domestic front, RBI's MPC signalled more rate hikes may be frontloaded which led 10Y yield open higher today. Markets in the coming week will monitor flash PMI print, inflation expectation survey in the US and also comments from central bank officials.

- Global indices ended broadly lower. US stocks declined amidst expectations that the Fed is likely to continue with future rate hikes. Technology stocks ended sharply lower. Amongst other major indices, while FTSE edged up by 0.1%, Nikkei and Hang Seng were flat. Sensex fell by 1.1% led by decline in real estate stocks. It is trading further lower today in line with other Asian stocks.

- Global yields broadly closed higher. Germany and UK's 10Y yield rose by 13 and 10 bps respectively, on account of soaring MoM increase in Germany's PPI and better than expected retail sales print in UK. India's 10Y yield rose by 2bps (7.26%) despite a higher than expected cut off set by RBI for the new 10Y 2032 security. It is trading higher at 7.29% today, as MPC minutes highlighted that more rate hikes may be frontloaded to control inflation.
