Global stocks inched up amidst an improvement in risk-sentiment. Political uncertainty in UK ended with the resignation of Prime Minister Boris Johnson. Further, reports that China is considering a US$ 220bn stimulus plan also boosted sentiments. In US, jobless claims rose unexpectedly to the highest since Jan'22 in the week ended 2 Jul 2022, suggesting a cooling off in labour demand. Investors keenly await US jobs report due later in the day.

- Global equity indices ended higher. Stocks in Japan and US rose the most. Investor sentiments were impacted by concomitant factors such as UK PM's resignation, minutes of major central banks (Fed and ECB), expected stimulus from China and underlying macro prints of major economies (US and Germany). Sensex rose by 0.8% supported by metal and real estate stocks. It is trading further higher today, in line with other Asian stocks.

- Except Japan and China (stable), global yields closed higher, Germany's 10Y yield rose the most by 11bps as ECB minutes highlighted that rate hike may be higher than 25bps (as initially expected). Even US 10Y yield rose by 7bps as Fed officials (Christopher Waller and James Bullard) spoke of more restrictive policy to curb price pressures. China's 10Y yield remained stable as government is planning to sell US$ 220bn of special bonds for funding infrastructure. India's 10Y yield rose by 6bps (7.35%) as oil prices inched up. It is trading higher at 7.38% today, ahead of the auction results.
